DETAILED ACTION

1. Receipt is acknowledged of Applicant's Prior Art Statement, filed July 25, 2003.
2. Receipt is acknowledged of Applicant's Priority papers, filed July 25, 2003.
3. Receipt is acknowledged of Applicant's Preliminary Amendment, filed July 25, 2003.
4. Claims 1-5 have been canceled.
5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 6-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gale in view of Litvak and further in view of Li et al. Gale discloses a polishing apparatus comprising a vacuum wafer carrier which holds the active face of the grooved wafer while a polishing pad removes material from the backside of the wafer to separate the wafer into individual chips. Litvak discloses an optical monitoring apparatus for cmp endpoint determination in which an electromagnetic wave is delivered through the wafer carrier. To use an optical endpoint monitoring detection means to signal when breakthrough first occurs, would have been obvious in view of Litvak. Li et al discloses a method of cmp endpoint determination comprising providing an overpolish timing following detection of breakthrough of a layer. To provide a control section in the apparatus of Gale to establish a timing for finishing the back surface grinding following detection of breakthrough of the backside would have been obvious in view of Li et al.

Art Unit: 3723

The use of electromagnetic energy in the microwave range for higher frequency detection would have been an obvious matter of design choice to those of ordinary skill in the art.

7. Claims 16-17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Gitis et al is cited of interest to show an endpoint detection apparatus for cmp comprising sensors located in both the pad and wafer carrier.
